6-1-23 PLS Meeting Minutes

Bev called the meeting to order with 19 present.

No treasurer's report, this month; Joyce was unable to attend, but did send some figures from lace day:

- Donations covered the cost of the sandwiches.
- Sales of Alice's items: $1,384
- Plus consignment items, gave us a total of $2,515 in sales.

Lace day discussions:

Jackie suggested that we touch base with the Eugene and Puget Sound groups to make sure our lace day doesn't conflict with their activities, so they can attend. We did have several ladies from LPS and were glad to visit with them. Jean also suggested that we send out notices early each year of the date for our lace day and follow up with reminders in the newsletter.

Next year:

- The Grange staff would prefer that we take the food garbage home to dispose of, to avoid any critter incursions.
- We need to decide in advance how we'll handle the extra tickets given to attendees – the prevailing discussion was to just make them extra raffle tickets that they can put in whatever bag they want.
- Maybe we could have a small display of different types of laces upstairs, so new and non-lacemakers can see what we do?

Last summer's lace "garage sale" was fun; Bev has suggested we might want to do it again this year – maybe the October meeting?

The August meeting has traditionally been our picnic day but it has been suggested that the September meeting might be still nice and maybe a bit cooler.

Teachers: the group has agreed that we can afford to have two classes this year. The proposal is to have Elizabeth Peterson come in October and Louise in the spring. Bev will contact them and find out when they're available and what they would like to teach. Possibly Brugge and Bedfordshire from Elizabeth, with Louise doing Milanese and Bucks.

Jackie proposed that, since we did so well with lace day sales, the student fee for the classes be cut by 50%, to allow more people to attend. The discount would be for members, only. Bev said she had already cut the fee down to $50, which is enough to encourage people who have signed up to attend without being too expensive for anyone's budget.

State Fair demos: Bev is working with the organizers to put us on the schedule for August 30 (Weds) & Sept 3 (Sunday) – we're looking for demonstrators, contact Bev and she'll put you on the list. She'll let us know when the dates have been finalized.

Yamhill County Fair: Jackie has been trying to contact the organizers to set up demos there.

Meeting adjourned for show and tell.

Portland Lace Society Minutes

July 6, 2023

The meeting was called to order with 19 present, which included 2 guests.

Treasurers Report: There is $6125.63 in checking. $1650 was received from the sale of some of Alice's lace at IOLI.

Joyce shared about Opal passing away and that the memorial service will be held on July 29, 1:00 pm at the United Methodist Church in Newberg.

Review of Demos:

Yamhill County Fair – Aug 2-5, 2023 – Let Joyce know if you are coming to be able to get parking tickets.

Clark County Fair – Aug. 4-13

Clackamas County Fair – Wednesday, August 16th

State Fair – Wednesday August 30, and Sunday Sept 3 – Let Beverly know if you are going.

Salem Handweavers Sale – Fri and Sat October 6 -7
Oregon Flock and Fiber, Albany Fair Grounds - Sat and Sunday October 14-15

Classes: Elizabeth Peterson is available the weekend of October 21st for class in Bruge, Beds, Binche, or Bucks. The consensus is to have her teach from Friday to Sunday, Oct. 20-22. Jackie will host the class.

Do we want Louise to come in March 23-34, 2024 or do we ask Carolyn Wetzel (if available) to come and teach Amelia Ars?

More people are interested in Carolyn Wetzel (at least 10), than Louise (around 3).

Beverly will check with Carolyn regarding her availability in 2024.

New Business: Tatting quarterly – Venessa has been given permission to teach Heidi Nakayama's patterns. Beverly and Carol will ask her about potential dates for the next tatting quarterly.

September meeting will be a picnic potluck.

October meeting will be a "garage sale" of our lace and crafty stuff.

Feb. 16-18, 2024 is Winter Lace in Costa Mesa, CA.

Meeting adjourned for show and tell.

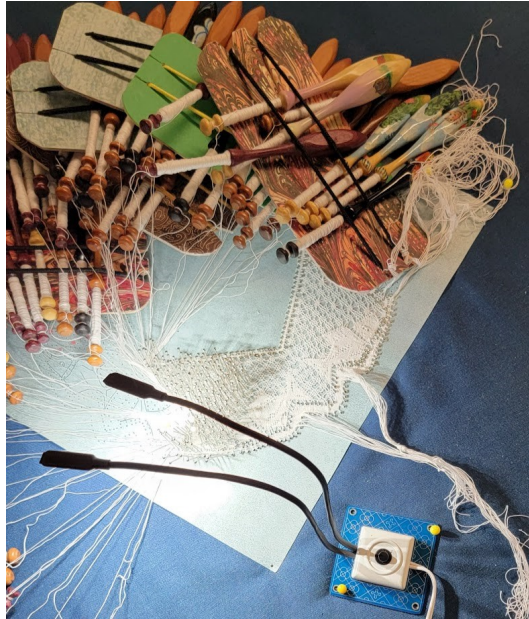

Submitted, Lynda Libby

Good News! John Hensel informs that he is mending well, Kathy is home again, and they are planning on a new video later this year.

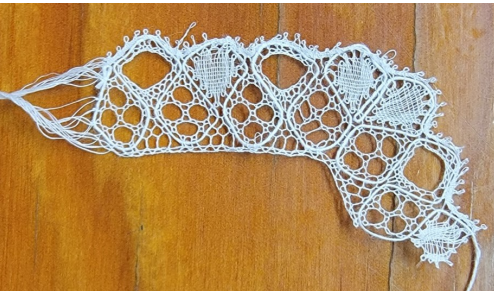

Back from IOLI - - -

Lyndia took a class on Wednesday called "Think outside the box." Looks like we are definitely outside this box. Very pretty. Elizabeth Peters did this class, since she is coming to give a class here, maybe more of us could be outside of a box.

Lynda's class during the week was Binche. If you look close you can see a fish swimming on the edge. When done those fish will be all around. So many tiny snowflakes as the ground. Very pretty.

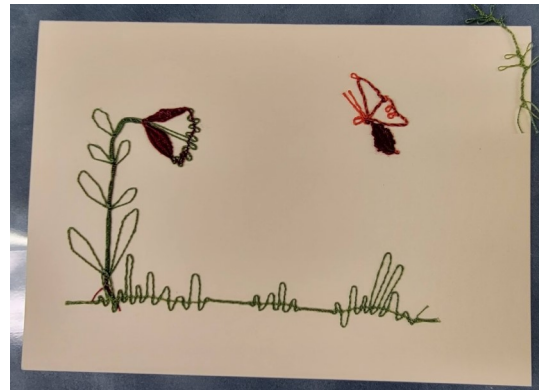

Pauline took a class on Tonder. I recognize those tell tale large holes.

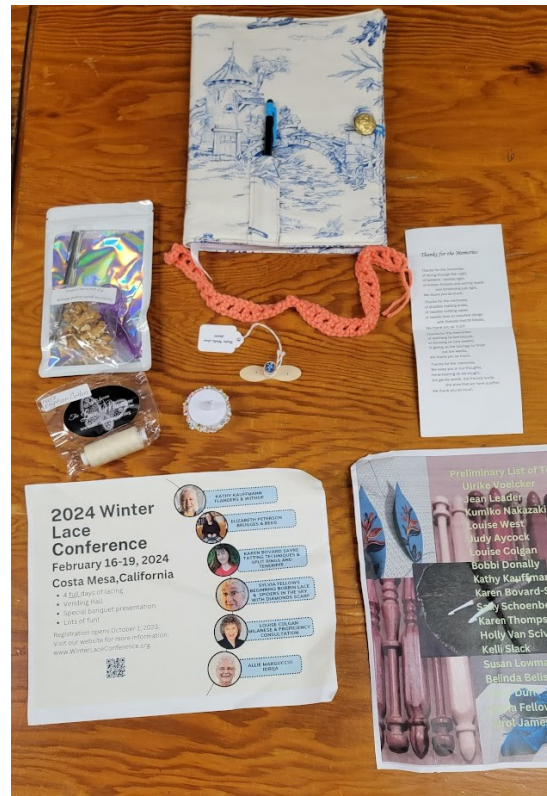

I took Binche too. I used larger thread a size 60/2 hoping I would be able to see what I was doing. Left the clamp for my magnifying lamp at home. Disaster, but still found a small pin to the pillow one that worked. Lyndia rescued me one day and let me use hers until I could get to the sale room.

Another Wednesday class was Ulreike's Flowers with two pair. Susan Jones took the class and made this little card. I didn't take the class, but I bought the book and it has some very clever things that could be added around the edge of larger pieces to frame. I'm thinking my little animals need to have some flowers, butterflies and grass to make them happy.

As usual there were goodies, giveaways, and announcements of Winter Lace and Next year's IOLI.

More Convention - - - -

Susan Jones took the class on Invisible Starts and Endings from Holly.

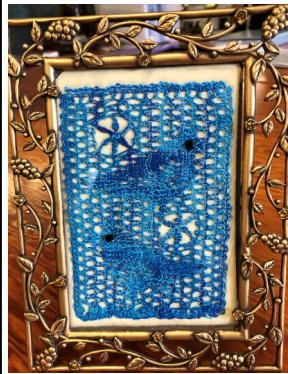

She also took Jean Leader's Beginning Bucks. She says it was her first time for this kind of lace so she did lots of little samples.

Nice samples with great tensioning.

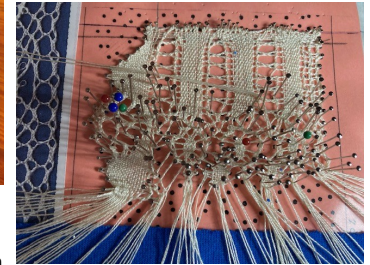

Lise found a great use for some of John Aibe's fancy wood turnings.

Before Convention - - - -

Anna made these little blue birds for her husband's birthday. Then she started a Mircourt piece from a book her friend sent to her. She is going to give it to her as a Thank You.

LeAnn did this lovely picture in 3-D from her Zoom Class. All I can say is WOW!

Bev came back from Shuttlebirds with these pieces. Beads and bling, always good.

Pauline with another beautiful scarf. Definitely something to smile about.

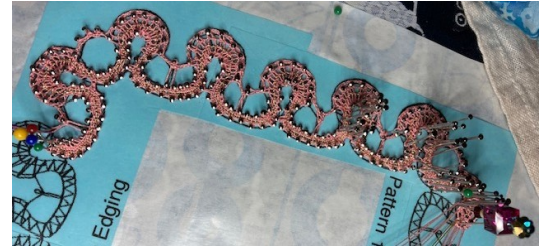

Lyndia finished her Sunflower from Louise's class. Great colors.

I finished a piece of Fiandra with Broad Tape just before I left for convention, Incentive was two new patterns that I ordered from Irma's Web Site. Now I have two new pieces to do. This stuff is addictive and fun to do.

Anna just keeps busy making lace. She got the Schneeburger video and away she went.

When you are around Anna it seems like it might be OK to get older. On my birthday last month she came and when she left I had this beautiful lace butterfly in the frame on my lamp table. She is an expert at the bobbin lace figures. Of course it has sequins and shiny stuff and beautiful colors. Thank you Anna.

Beverly practiced leaves and Beds at Convention and then did another Bethlehem Star.

OIDFA - So our world travelers are off to OIDFA Congress again. Beverly and Carol are old hands at this, but travel is a lot different than when they went before. Bon Voyage and have a great time shopping and learning. Take pictures and report back. We will be expecting some good stories for next publication.

We all enjoyed a half-price lunch at Convention and hearing about all the great plans for the event. I've heard that some of the Zoom classes may be repeated in a few months since they had such a demand for them. I hope so, I might be rested up enough to do one by then.
